Respondents respectfully submit this supplemental brief pursuant to this Court's Rule 15.8 to advise the Court that Respondents have voluntarily dismissed their claims in the present case without prejudice and that the case is therefore moot. See Board of License Comm'rs v. Pastore, 469 U.S. 238, 239-40 (1985) (per curiam).

On September 21, 2009, Respondents filed a "Voluntary Notice of Dismissal Without Prejudice" in the State Court of Fulton County pursuant to Georgia Code § 9-11-41(a) and gave notice of such voluntary dismissal pursuant to § 41(a)(1)(A) of the Georgia Civil Practice Act. See App., infra, 1a-2a. Georgia courts have liberally construed plaintiffs' right to dismiss a case voluntarily and without prejudice. See, e.g., McKesson Corp. v. Green, 648 S.E.2d 457, 461-62 (Ga. Ct. App. 2007). Under Georgia law, the voluntary dismissal was proper and thereby terminated the present litigation.

In light of the voluntary dismissal, there is no longer a live case or controversy, such that the case is moot. Because this Court no longer has Article III jurisdiction over the case, the Court should dismiss the petition. See DeFunis v. Odegaard, 416 U.S. 312, 319-20 (1974) (per curiam).

This case does not fall into any of the narrowly circumscribed exceptions to the mootness doctrine. It is not "capable of repetition, yet evading review." Southern Pac. Terminal Co. v. ICC, 219 U.S. 498, 515 (1911). As in DeFunis, there is no reason that future litigation raising the same questions at issue here will evade review, unlike cases dealing with pregnancy or elections. See DeFunis, 416 U.S. at 318-19; see also Roe v. Wade, 410 U.S. 113, 125 (1973). Neither does this case involve the cessation of illegal conduct, which a party might easily resume. See, e.g., City of Erie v. Pap's A.M., 529 U.S. 277, 287-89 (2000). Finally, it does not implicate a situation in which the Court has devoted extensive resources to a case after having granted certiorari. See Honig v. Doe, 484 U.S. 305, 331-32 (1988) (Rehnquist, C.J., concurring).

In short, although the present case is moot, the Court will likely have ample opportunity to review the federal questions presented in the context of an actual case or controversy.

For the foregoing reasons, this Court should dismiss the petition in the present case as moot.
