SUPPLEMENTAL BRIEF OF PETITIONER

Pursuant to this Court's Rule 15.8, Petitioner submits this supplemental brief regarding the government's December 22, 2015 response in Harrimon v. United States, No. 15-7426.

In response to Petitioner's petition for a writ of certiorari, the government represented that this case would not be an appropriate vehicle to resolve the circuit split regarding whether Johnson v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 2551 (2015), has been "made retroactive" to second or successive § 2255 motions "because petitioner seeks review of the denial of his first Section 2255 motion." Mem. of United States 3. In its recent response in Harrimon, however, the government has taken the opposite position, representing that review of a first § 2255 motion "would afford an opportunity to resolve the conflict over whether Johnson is a substantive rule that is retroactive to cases on collateral review," the resolution of which "would expressly 'ma[k]e' Johnson retroactive and permit prisoners filing timely second or successive motions to satisfy the gatekeeping requirements of 28 U.S.C. 2255(h)(2)." Br. of United States at 23, Harrimon v. United States, No. 15-7426 (U.S. Dec. 22, 2015). The government further suggests that the Court may wish to grant certiorari prejudgment in Harrimon. Id. at 31.

To the extent that this Court accepts the government's newfound position that this Court should grant plenary review of Johnson's applicability to an initial § 2255 motion, it would make little sense to do so prejudgment—which raises complex procedural hurdles under this Court’s Rule 11, see Br. of United States at 23-28, Harrimon v. United States, No. 15-7426 (U.S. Dec. 22, 2015)—when Petitioner’s case presents an opportunity to review the retroactivity of Johnson to initial § 2255 motions without such procedural hurdles. Here, the Eleventh Circuit has issued a judgment on Petitioner’s request for a certificate of applicability, and there is no dispute that Petitioner was sentenced pursuant to the now-void residual clause of ACCA. Pet. Reply 3-4; Mem. of United States 1-2. Moreover, Petitioner raised the retroactivity of Johnson at every opportunity, including requesting a stay pending Johnson and requesting leave to seek reconsideration in light of Johnson. Pet. Reply 3-4. Petitioner is now entitled to the benefit of Johnson pursuant to the simple fact that Johnson was decided after the court of appeal’s decision and before resolution of his initial § 2255 has become final.

The government’s recognition that this Court could use its discretionary certiorari power to GVR this case is itself an acknowledgment that the Court could—if it chooses to review the applicability of Johnson to an initial § 2255 motion—use its discretionary certiorari power to grant plenary review in this case. See Lawrence v. Chater, 516 U.S. 163, 167 (1996) (explaining that GVR is simply a means of “conserv[ing] the scarce resources of this Court that might otherwise be expended on plenary consideration”). Granting plenary review of Harrimon would lead to the bizarre circumstance in which Petitioner's case—which presents an unobstructed opportunity to review the applicability of Johnson to an initial § 2255 motion—is held (by this Court or, upon GVR, by the Eleventh Circuit) pending a prejudgment case that presents needless procedural complexities.

CONCLUSION

As Petitioner stated in his Reply Brief, the Court should resolve the conflict over whether Johnson has been “made retroactive” to successive petitions using one of the successive petitions pending before this Court and immediately GVR this case for further consideration in light of Johnson. In the alternative, should the Court wish to resolve the conflict over Johnson by granting a petition for certiorari in a case involving an initial petition, the Court should grant plenary review of this case.

Respectfully submitted,
